The above illustration shows the shirtwaist the film beauty wore at the time and how it was torn. ## OHIO CHIEF JUSTICE DECLARES UPHOLDING REORGANIZATION BILL NULLIFIES CONSTITUTION

Marshall Asserts "The Outrage Perpetrated on People by Judicial Action Rather Than By Repealing as Law Requires Can Never Be Repaired---Says That Four Men on Court Have Throttled Voice of Ohio Voters---Upholds Elyria Senator in Declaring That Ripper Bill Is Not an Emergency

COLUMBUS, Sept. 21.—Declaring that the right of a referendum on the Dunn Act providing for reorganization of state departments, which became effective July first, last, was prevented "by a combination of legislative, executive and judicial legerdemain" and that "an 'emergency' has been made to appear where none, in fact, existed," Chief Justice Marshall, of the State Supreme Court, has issued an opinion dissenting from the majority opinion, written by State Supreme Judges Hough, Matthias, Jones and Robinson, which upheld the validity of the Dunn Act as an emergency measure.

Predicts Reversal of Decision

Predicting that the majority opinion will be reversed, Justice Marshall concurred to a considerable extent in the dissenting opinions written by Supreme Judges Wanamaker and Johnson.

"The real, the substantial damage which consists in the outrage which has been perpetrated upon the people in nullifying the solemn provisions of the constitution by judicial pronouncement, instead of amendment and repeal by the means regularly provided, can never be repaired," declared Chief Justice Marshall.

Shakes Confidence of Voters

"That which was created by a large majority of the people in 1912, when every voter had an equal voice, may not be destroyed in 1921 by four members of this court. By this decision, the confidence of the people in representative government has been rudely shaken."

This statment of Chief Justice Marshall is a real reason of a position that Senator J. F. Burke took in maintaining in his suit and his declaration on the governorship.

SCIENTIST SEES GRADUAL DETERIORATION OCCURRING IN HUMAN RACE

By ELLIS H. MARTIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

KELEY, Cal., Sept. 21.—A gradual deterioration is taking place nan race.

olence" of the better class of women in rearing children.
oyment of large numbers of women in office work.
ing of the races
ited effects of alcohol.
rn environmental agencies of industry and city life.

e are the conclusions reached by Dr. Samuel J. Holmes, pro- ology at the University of California in his latest book, "The he race." In this volume Dr. Holmes traces the evolution of can people and mankind and presents the results of intensive investigation of the race.

n Are Borne ore Difficulty.

rs noted in tracing the deterioration include increasing difficul- nced in bearing children; frequent inability of women to nurse ren; the growing frequency of suicide; decrease in stature; in- ental irregularities and tendency to baldness; loss of use of s and degeneration of the little toe.

"It is a fairly general opinion, which has a considerable following in medical circles, that he physique of modern civilized women has become rather seriously weakened in the last few generations," says Dr. Holmes. "Our index of this is the increasing difficulty experienced in bearing children. The ease with which women of primitive races bear children has often been remarked upon. It is not improbable that this matter has been unduly exaggerated. Child bearing is easier, however, among women who are used to a moderate amount of physical labor.

"Undoubtedly the life of modern women, especially those of the more well-to-do classes, is not favorable to easy child-bearing. The employment of large numbers of women in sedentary occupations, such as stenography, office work, etc., cannot fail to multiply the troubles of child-birth.

"Another much-discussed physical defect of modern woman is her frequent inability to nurse children. Those who have lived among primitive peoples have frequenty commented on the almost universal ability of mothers to feed their children at the breast. And among Europeans the women of previous generations nursed their children much more frequently than the women of the present time.

Many Disinclined to Nurse Children.

"Many women are disinclined, also, to nurse their children for at least a very long time in these days of artificial substitutes for mothers' milk. The fact that the proportion of women unable to nurse their children is usually greater in cities than in rural districts point to the potency of environmental influences for this change in natural conditions."

The inherited effects of alcohol Dr. Holmes gives as one of the probable reasons for the alleged degeneracy of modern woman. Increase in crime, including murders and suicides, he declares, is also held to follow in the wake of inherited degeneracies.

In this regard he says:

"The growing frequency of suicide is often regarded as connected with the alleged increase of insanity and nervous disorders and hence as symptoms of racial deterioration. It is also explained as the results of changing environment, which is commonly held to be productive of more nervous strain than in previous years."

Modern Civilization Effects Are Shown

Other effects of modern civilization on the human race Dr. Holmes points out as follows:

"Many physical characteristics of men are affected considerably by environmental agencies. The latter are especially prone to influence strength, longevity, rate of growth, the prevalence of various diseases, and to a less extent stature and weight. Conditions of life, especially in large industrial centers, have changed in such a way as greatly to affect the physique of a large part of the inhabitants. The relatively low stature of city dwellers is probably due largely to this cause.

"It is not improbable that many dental irregularities and maladjustments are the result of racial crossing. With more or less independent variability of jaws and teeth it often happens that teeth are unduly crowded in small jaws or are otherwise out of normal relations.

"Along with the deterioration of teeth there seems to be a correlative tendency to the loss of hair. Baldness is much more common to us than among primitive races. Although this is commonly ascribed to the wearing of hats, recent studies have shown that this infirmity depends largely on ancestry and the influence of hats is largely exaggerated.

"We have all but lost the use of some of our ear muscles and entirely lost the use of others, but we are no worse off in our present mode of life. Our little toe is said to be degenerating, and there are probably several minor structures in the same situation. A further degeneration of the vermiform appendix would probably be a positive advantage."

Nature is Found To Be Correcting Herself.

Despite the dark picture he has painted of the course of the American race, Dr. Holmes is not entirely pessimistic. In the course of his investigations he has found several factors which tend to indicate

Chief Fitzmaurice included in his statement a long list of offenders he said had been liberated by court order

"If Judge David is let alone," the chief continued "he will have a lot of ponce in cells if crime nails have to be turned out to make room for them I still think that Wanderer should hang and if the courts functioned as promptly and as vigorously in every case as Judge David has against me the police officer killed in front of my home would still be alive and with his family and the two crooks that killed him would have been in jail where they belonged instead of being free to prey upon law-abiding and law enforcing citizens"

In passing sentence upon Fitzmaurice Judge David made a lengthy speech in which he said that he expected his action to be criticized and said that 'whatever way the court moves it will be charged with acting with malice and out of a spirit of revenge'

The Socialist congress at Goerlitz took important decisions regarding the re-building of the cabinet and decided to enter a new ministry If the plans now in hand work out to fulfillment, the next cabinet will be of Coalition makeup

A tentative slate for the new government was made up by the Socialists as follows:

Chancellor—Dr. Loebe, now President of the Reichstag.

Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs—Dr Gustav Stresemann, leader of the German Peoples' party which has just formed a coalition with the Socialists.

Minister of Re-Construction—Walter Rathenau (the insumbent)

Minister of Interior — Herr Cradnauer

No one was assigned to the Ministry of Finance but it was decided that he should be a Socialist.

Most of the men selected by the Socialists are said to have been approved by other political parties

The position of Chancellor Wirth has become very difficult, owing to the domestic development of the past six months and especially the antagonism of the capitalists to his tax program nature is herself correcting the deficiencies which modern civilization has conferred on the race

The one agency which appears to be most clearly working to any racial improvement is natural selection or mates" he said At any rate there is a large amount of evidence that it is favoring the maintenance of physical vigor and keenness of mind Sexual selection is still in a more doubtful position

'To a certain extent it retains what might be considered its primitive function of denying the privilege of parenthood to the poorer or higher individuals of the species but the most capable and independent spirits, especially among women are coming to be denied this privilege also'

Intelligent recognition of the racial maladies which affect the present day generation forms the only method for correction says the college writer and lecturer

"It is only by recognizing these and understanding the methods of their working, that effective means can be taken to keep them in check he says

Feeble Attempt Made to Curtail Defectives.

'Rather feeble attempts have been made to curtail the propagation of mental defectives through sterilizing or segregating some of the worst of these undesirable elements The practice carried on much more extensively would undoubtedly relieve society of an immense burden But the elimination of our worst defectives would not meet the most serious difficulty, which consists in the loss of stocks which carry our best inheritance

'It is doubtful if the pecuniary rewards which have sometimes been advocated for increasing the birth rate of desirable parents would prove very effective There is much to be said in making parenthood voluntary in all classes so as to restrict the birth rate among the people of better endowments This of itself would lead to a greater relative fecundity among those of superior intelligence and so long as restriction is not carried far enough to prevent an increase of population the result would doubtless be socially and eugenically desirable

"For most civilized countries therefore the necessity for further restriction of the birth rate must sooner or later become imperative If this should occur mainly in people of better endowment who already have a low birth rate, the deterioration of our racial inheritance will go on at an accelerated pace

Nation's Best Blood Is Most Priceless

"An ignorant and poverty stricken proletariat will multiply rapidly through sheer lack of restraint. The best blood of a nation is its most priceless possession

"It is a hopeful sign that here and there among people who have inherited a generous measure of desirous traits eugenic considerations have led to the rearing of larger families On the other hand, many who are aware that they carry a hereditary taint refrain from passing a possible affliction to posterity

'Those who have been most fortunate in the possession of hereditary gifts should feel that upon them rests an unusual obligation to see that their qualities are not allowed to perish from the earth The race has its fate in its own hands for or to mar Will it ever take itself in hand and shape its own

Dr Holmes has been associated with the University of California faculty for a number of years and is a recognized authority on evolution and eugenics Besides his book just off the press, he is the author of 'The Evolution of Animal Intelligence," Studies in Animal Behavior and other volumes affecting the progress of the human race

Your Heating Engineer—you used to call him Steamfitter

"During the first winter nearly one-half of their number died from exposure."

—ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITTANICA

JUST three hundred years ago they landed on Plymouth Rock. They were a courageous company—as sturdy and stout as the best of us.

But nearly half of them died from exposure.

The land to which they came was the same land in which we live; the winter was no more severe than our winters now.

But nearly half of them died from exposure.

Almost no one in America dies from exposure today. And why? Because of the service of a group of quiet, unassuming men. Working without special notice or praise, the men whom you call Steamfitters and Plumbers have made the newest nation the healthiest and best-warmed nation in the world.

They have done a wonderful work for America; and yet their work is hardly more than begun. Statisticians say that 17½ million homes in America still have no heat except the heat of old-fashioned stoves.

ARCOLA—the Heating Engineer's wonderful new gift to the small home

FOR years every Heating Engineer has longed for a hot-water heating outfit that would warm the small home as perfectly as the larger heating plants of the AMERICAN RADIATOR COMPANY warm mansions, cathedrals and even the White House itself.

ARCOLA—a wonderful new invention developed after years of experiment—is the answer to that hope.

ARCOLA is unlike any heating equipment you have ever seen. It is radiator and boiler and hot-water heater combined to burn any kind of fuel. Set in the living-room, dining-room or kitchen, it radiates healthful warmth to every corner. American Radiators, connected with it by small pipes carry its warmth to every room upstairs and down. The kitchen tank, too, can draw on its deep fire-pot, providing an abundance of hot water for washing and bathing.

See ARCOLA today in the store of any Heating Engineer displaying the red and yellow card at the right.

ARCOLA is not only a great invention for the small home; it is a gift to the small home in a very real sense.

For, in the fuel it saves, ARCOLA is guaranteed to pay for itself.

If every man who can install a heating plant should work every day, it would take a generation to give modern healthful heat to those 17½ million homes.

An almost overwhelming task! But think of the overwhelming economy! Every IDEAL TYPE A HEAT MACHINE substituted for a wasteful furnace or boiler means that one family's fuel bill is reduced one-third.

Every ARCOLA, supplanting a furnace or old-fashioned stoves, slashes the fuel bill of another home.

Of all the services rendered to the modern home there is none which pays for itself more quickly or more surely than the service of the Steamfitter and Plumber.

Call your Steamfitter or your Plumber in now and have him go over your house and report; his counsel may save you money. Make it a point to consult him twice a year as you do your Doctor or your Dentist. And do not be surprised if the old name over his store has been taken down and a new one hangs in its place.

For the men whose science and skill have robbed winter of its terrors and removed the breeding-grounds of disease, have outgrown the names by which you have been accustomed to call them. Their work has become a profession: the Steamfitter and Plumber of yesterday are today the Heating and Sanitary Engineers.

Why Hugh Grantland Came Secretly to Meet Madge.

My wild cry in answer to the call I fancied I heard from my boy must have sounded through the whole house. I heard feet pounding down the hall, and knew that Leila was running steetly behind me, but I out-distanced them all and ran frantically toward the barn, calling:

"Yes, Junior, mother's coming!" over and over again.

There was a slight crashing sound in the bushes that lined the roadside some distance away, a wild straggling undergrowth, which we had not had time to ignore. From the darkness in front of me, Grace Draper suddenly appeared, breathless, as if she had been running. A lantern must have been held behind her, for I did not see its gleam until she held it high to see who I was. Her own face was outside its light, but I had caught a glimpse of it—it was panic-stricken, with great drops of perspiration standing upon her forehead.

"Oh! What is it?" she exclaimed, seizing me by the arm. Her firm grasp, her figure in front of me, effectually checked my advance for the minute.

"Let me go!" I snarled, trying to get my arm from her. "It's Junior, I know! I heard him calling me. And don't you hear that crash? Somebody's trying him off. I know it. Let me go."

But strong as I am, I was powerless in her grasp.

"You must not dash along like this, Madge," she said firmly. "Wait and I'll go with you with the lantern. You'll break your neck. But you didn't hear Junior; he's been right outdoors walking back and forth between the house and the garden, calling him ever since you left him. I would have heard if he had called. And that crash is the cow over there. If you go over you can see her."

"She's right, dear," Leila said softly. "I heard nothing, either."

Grace, Alfred and Dr. Jim, coming just then, agreed with Leila, and, against my will, I yielded to their desire that I return to the house. As Grace Draper's arm around me, I turned my head upon my path, weak and spent from the reaction, I saw a slender, familiar figure flit past me, and heard Hugh Fairfax's voice accosting Grace Draper.

"You must be fearfully lonely for your self here," she said. "I'll stay with you."

"That isn't necessary," Grace Draper replied, oddly hesitating, then with sudden decision: "But I'll be very grateful if you can stay."

"Just Hurry!"

With a sudden revulsion there rushed over me a realization of the fact that the two women who had caused me such anxiety in my life were out calling the child, while I was going toward the center of the house. I began to mutter frantically to that effect, twisting and straining in Dicky's arms to go back into the darkness with them. Then the darkness seemed to advance fantastically upon me, to shroud me in its folds.

I dimly recall rousing to a consciousness of faces around my bedside, of the big Dr. Jim's injunctions to swallow something, and then I drifted off into sleep again, awakening to the brilliant sunshine of the next morning and the awful realization that turned the day into somberest shadow.

Leila ministered to me tenderly. When she had dressed me and had made me drink a few spoonfuls of hot coffee, she insisted upon my forcing down my trembling throat a few morsels of food. Then she brought me a note, a hurried scrawl in an unfamiliar writing.

"I have an answer to your telegram, which I am instructed to deliver into no hands but yours," the brief note ran. "I will wait until you can see me.

"T. CHESTER."

A shock ran to my feet. This meant that the message had reached Hugh Grantland. Of all persons in the world he was the one whom I most longed to see. There was no slightest touch of sentiment in my feeling, but in the dramatic scenes in which we had happened to be thrown together during the war I had learned to hold in deep respect the mentality, the efficiency, the personal influence, may power, which he seemed to wield. If any one could find my baby for me I felt that Hugh Grantland could.

"Is Mr. Chester still waiting?" I asked. I thought Leila looked at me a bit curiously.

"Yes, he's been sitting on the veranda for two hours," she said.

"Oh, I must hurry!" I said, took a step, staggered, was forced to lean on Leila's shoulder, and to make my way downstairs in this halting fashion.

Mr. Chester sprang to his feet as he saw me, and drew up a chair for me.

"Would you mind, Leila, going away for a little?" I said, too weak and desperate to employ any subterfuge, or, indeed, to care what she or any one thought. "Mr. Chester has an important message for me."

"Of course not," she replied, and promptly vanished.

How They Met.

Mr. Chester handed me the telegram as she went.

It was already opened, as it was addressed to T. Chester.

"Tell Mrs. Graham will be there first possible train. Keep my arrival secret from every one, even members of the family. Reason for this. Wire me your telephone number, so can communicate with you upon arrival. Tell Mrs. Graham courage."

I looked up from the heartening message and began a halting mental calculation.

"The first possible train," I repeated.

"Will be in two hours from now," Mr. Chester said. "And I will bring Maj. Grantland out as soon as he wishes. If he doesn't wish any one but you to know he is here—"

He paused doubtfully.

"There is a wood road leading up to the hill back of the house," I said, "an entrance to the other road, little used, but passable. I drove over it the other day. Bring him there, leave the car and then come down and tell me. I will manage to see him."

He bowed and left me, and for the intervening hours I paced the floor in the first hope I had allowed myself. The very tenor of Hugh Grantland's message, his request to have his coming kept secret, made me hope illogically that he already had some clue. And when Mr. Chester, at the end of two hours, came walking across the farm, I told the family that I wanted to walk to the hill with him to see how the members of the Legion were beating the woods systematically.

Whatever they thought, no one made any objection—I think they all considered me a little out of my mind—and in a few more minutes I was face to face with Hugh Grantland.

FLAMING scarlets and russet browns, deep purples, wondrous yellows and gorgeous greens—these are the chief colors of Queen Autumn when she sweeps across the hills. Ripened fruits and flowers' last bloomings are in her train, borne on the wings of the first frosts. ## THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

Seven Ways to Make Favorite Egg Dishes.

EGG dishes always are acceptable. The frequent use of egg dishes helps in saving more expensive foods, and there is absolutely no waste in their cookery. Eggs which are to be converted into salads or combined in other ways should be boiled ten to fifteen minutes, cooled in cold water and allowed to stand at least half an hour before using. Roll the cold eggs under your hand on a table before peeling them. This will loosen the shell and not crack the inside of the egg during the process.

Eggs may figure through a dinner from soup to dessert without being out of place if the cook knows just how to use them to the best advantage. The following recipes will help those who have had but limited instruction in egg cookery:

Egg Soup.

Beat two level tablespoonfuls of flour with a dessertspoonful of stock, adding four well-beaten eggs. Have ready three pints of boiling stock and stir in the egg mixture, simmering gently for fifteen minutes, stirring constantly. Season with pepper and a little mace. Serve with fresh toast sippets.

Denver Eggs.

Peel and chop fine one small Spanish onion. Melt two ounces of butter or beef drippings in a frying pan and cook the onion until done, but not brown, then skim it out and set to cool. Beat five fresh eggs, adding salt, pepper, and a teaspoonful of baking powder dissolved in a glassful of cold water. Beat in the cool onion, then turn all into the pan with the hot fat the onion was fried in, and cook omelette fashion, only do not fold over. Serve on a hot platter.

Russian Omelette.

Make the usual four-egg omelette, and when it is cooked, ready to fold over, put in the following filling: Two tablespoonfuls of caviar, a grated onion, pepper, a tablespoonful of melted butter, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, and the stiffly beaten white of one egg. Mix well, and spread quickly, fold over and cover the omelette one minute to steam through and brown. Minced sardines may be used instead of the caviar if desired.

Vegetable Omelette.

Add to a four-egg omelette a grated onion. Have ready a cupful of macedoine vegetables heated in a little butter and well-seasoned. Cook the omelette as usual, and when ready to fold it over, spread with the vegetable filling. A cheese sance is sometimes served with this omelette when it is to take the place of a meat dish.

Eggs in Blankets.

Boil six eggs hard, cool and peel them. Dip them in a beaten egg, roll them in seasoned crumbs, put a slice of thin bacon around each egg and pin in place with a wooden toothpick. Fry the eggs in hot fat. Lay on a hot dish, garnish with toast sippets, and serve with a smooth, rich, tomato sauce.

Clarendon Eggs.

Cut a small eggplant in thick slices and boil in salted water five minutes. Drain, and lay on a buttered baking platter. Poach as many eggs as there are slices of the eggplant, and slip one on each slice, dust with pepper, salt and a little grated cheese, then put in the oven just long enough to melt the cheese.

Eggs Nicoise.

Hard-boil, peel and slice four eggs. Lay one egg on a lettuce leaf with a slice of fresh tomato and a few freshly boiled cold string-beans. Have a vinaigrette sauce made of half a cupful of French dressing, which has had a teaspoonful of made mustard, a tiny piece of garlic, a little onion juice, and the yolk of a hard-boiled egg marinated in it, then pressed through a sieve. Pour over the egg and serve. This recipe will make four dishes—one egg to a dish.

This Dainty Afternoon Frock Is of Black Charmeuse with Batiste Bib and Cuffs.

EXCEEDINGLY dainty is this frock of black charmeuse. It is designed with a charming neckline that reveals the graceful line of the shoulder.

Affecting the simple lines of the chemise frock, it is given decided individuality by the picturesque bib of sheer embroidered batiste. This appears on the upper part of the skirt as well as the waist. The fulness of the skirt is gathered to this appendage.

The charmeuse sleeves, extending below the elbow, are slashed open on their upper sides. The delicate tints of the flesh, however, are veiled by the cuffs of embroidered batiste.

What After-Vacation Care May Do for Your Complexion

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCREZIA BORI

ALTHOUGH poets may sing about the beauty of the "nut-brown maid," very few modern girls long for the sun-tanned complexion which is often the result of a long vacation spent out-of-doors. It's all very well to get your arms and your neck sunburned, but when you desert the shore or the mountains it may become objectionable to you.

No amount of regretting or assuring yourself that you never will be so thoughtless of your complexion again will remove the visible evidences of your carelessness. Your nose will continue to peel until the burnt skin is all gone. Your reddened hands and swarthy arms will show evidence of your outdoor life for many a day.

When you return to the city and anticipate taking your part in the social affairs which interest your community or resuming your business or professional duties, your first endeavor is to get your skin back again to its former beauty.

This will take a little time, but if you will persevere you eventually will be rewarded by seeing your skin once more restored to its youthful bloom. The first thing you should do if you would overcome the unpleasant effects of sunburn or the roughening effect of sea breezes on your skin is to apply some grease to the affected parts. It needs nourishment badly, and you should make a point of massaging it well with a good cold cream every evening.

Before you do this, however, you should see that your face is thoroughly cleansed. And if you are going to treat your neck and arms in a similar way, also bathe them before you start this treatment. While you may favor some particular creams it may be that you will prefer to make up a cream for yourself. If you care to do so, you will find that the following is an excellent one:

A Reliable Cold Cream.

|---|---|
| Cocoa butter | 1 ounce |
| Lanolin | 2 ounces |
| Fine lard | 4 ounces |
| Oil of bergamot | 1 dram |
| Carbolic acid | 1 dram |

Melt the lard, cocoa butter and lanolin together. When they are thoroughly melted add the oil of bergamot and the carbolic acid. Should the ingredients appear to separate while they are cooling or the cream refuse to thicken after you have stirred it well there must be some water in the lard. If you will reheat the mixture this will quickly evaporate. Stir the mixture again, and pour it into small jars and let it cool.

One reason for introducing carbolic acid in this formula is that it helps to whiten the skin, and it is also excellent as a remover of impurities.

When you have thoroughly massaged some of this cream into your skin you should wipe off any surplus. It is best to apply this at night so that you do not have to go outdoors and face the elements.

If the appearance of your hands is displeasing to you, you should apply a little skin food and wear loose gloves when you retire. The foregoing recipe is excellent for them also, but if you prefer you can make another cream that is particularly good for the hands:

An Excellent Skin Food for the Hands.

|---|---|
| Borax | 1 dram |
| Oxide of zinc | 1 dram |
| Oil of sweet almonds | 1 ounce |
| Cocoa butter | 1 ounce |
| Oil of bergamot | 6 drops |

Heat the almond oil and cocoa butter in a porcelain dish. When they are blended add the borax and zinc. As the mixture cools stir it steadily, and lastly add the oil of bergamot.

You may help to whiten your skin by the application of some lemon juice. This may be diluted with a little rain water and perfumed with a drop or two of essence of roses if you wish.

By adopting the above suggestions you soon will note a marked difference in the appearance of your skin, and if you will continue the necessary applications you will be pleased with the results.

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young man of 18. I love a girl of about my age. Do you think she loves me? She has told me so several times. She was going with a friend before I met her, and now she's friendly with him again, and she dances with him.

Do you think that it is right for her to dance with him and speak to him if she cares for me?

Please tell me what to do to win her love. C.

I REALLY do not know whether or not she cares for you. But unless you are engaged, there is no reason why she should not speak to and dance with other young men.

Don't be selfish. If you truly care for her you will try to please her. And you should be happy to know she has other friends and enjoys their company. When she sees how unselfish and how thoughtful and considerate you are, no doubt she will value your friendship more.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two girls, 17 years of age. We fell deeply in love with two young men, 20 and 21 years of age.

The last time we saw them they told us they loved us, and asked us to marry them. We begged them to wait a while in order to let us think it over. They agreed, and left town that night. They wrote us a letter several days later, asking us to consider the proposal seriously. We do not know whether we should consult our parents or run off and marry without their consent. Please advise us. TWO GIRLS.

TWO GIRLS: Of course, you should tell your parents all about these young men, and be guided by the good advice I know they will give you.

Really, my dears, you know so little about these new acquaintances, their character, their mode of living and their families, that until you learn from an authentic source just who and what they are you would do well to put all thoughts of them out of your minds. If you value your happiness don't run away. Marriage should be solemnized by the consent and the presence of parents.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

YOUR HEALTH

How to Bring Comfort to Sore, Tired or Blistered Feet

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Commissioner of Health, New York City

SORE feet have taken the joy out of many a holiday. Who can laugh and sing when "the shoes are full of feet"? If your feet hurt, you're sick all over. Besides corns and bunions, there are other causes for aching feet. Blisters and fissures can be, oh, so painful!

New shoes or tight shoes, poorly fitting shoes or stiff and unyielding shoes are responsible for the formation of blisters. It is not uncommon to have blisters form when an old pair of shoes is exchanged for new shoes, especially when high shoes are discarded for low shoes. If the low shoes slip up and down on the heel, or if they dig into the skin at the top, blisters or abrasions will form very quickly. Another place is on top of the foot where the bend of the shoes rubs the skin.

Wear Proper Shoes.

Between the toes there may be blisters—there may be fissures or cracks.

Rubbing the feet too vigorously with a rough towel may hurt the skin.

Standing too long, or walking too far, may damage the tissues of the feet. Possibly the dye of the stockings, or the chemicals used in tanning the leather of the shoes may have its effects on the skin. It is certainly true that stockings which are full of holes, or too tight, may result in harm.

Excessive sweating of the feet softens the skin and leaves it more liable to irritation. Likewise, undue dryness of the skin predisposes to cracking.

Needless to say, the first consideration necessary for healthy and uncomplaining feet is to wear none but properly fitting shoes.

It is unfortunate that comfort and the good of the feet are secondary to the "looks" of the shoes and their "style" in the minds of many foolish persons.

The average man or woman has only one pair of "good" shoes at a time. There is no economy in this plan and it certainly is a mistake so far as the good of the feet is concerned. Nothing can be more painful than changing from damp and hot shoes to a dry and cool pair. Even though they are made on the same last, the fit will vary and the second pair will be comfortable in spots placed under pressure by the first pair.

When you change your shoes, change your stockings also. If you are one of the unfortunate persons who suffer from excessive perspiration of the feet, bathe them in cold water, dry with a towel and dust them with a powder consisting of equal parts of cornstarch, boracic acid and stearate of zinc.

Effective Aids.

When once you have found a make and a size of shoe comfortable to your feet, be slow to change to other shapes and makes. If you have tender and easily irritated feet, forget the ebbing tides of style.

If a blister forms, clean the foot thoroughly with soapy water. Wash your hands perfectly clean. Sterilize a needle by passing it through the flame of a match and wipe it off with a piece of clean gauze or cotton. Then prick the blister open at its edge. Carefully press out the fluid, taking care not to break or tear the skin over the blister. Paint the blister and surrounding parts with 2 or 3 per cent. iodine. Then cover with a thin pad of gauze and strap it in place with adhesive plaster.

Cracks or fissures between the toes may be swabbed with iodine. Or a solution of tannic acid in glycerine, or tincture of benzoin, may be applied. If this treatment does not suffice, it may be necessary to use a more active remedy, such as silver nitrate in 10 or 15 per cent. solution. This is carefully swabbed into the crack.

After this treatment the fissure must be protected against dirt by covering it with a bit of gauze.

The feet are entitled to more care than the average person gives them. They must be kept scrupulously clean, perfectly dry and the circulation must be good.

Answers to Health Questions

C. C. Q—Will you kindly tell me how I can stop my hands from perspiring excessively?

A—Bathe them daily in cold water and rub with a 10 per cent. solution of salicylic acid in alcohol. Having dried the hands, apply 10 per cent. solution of formalin or 1-1000 solution of permanganate of potash.

THREE-MINUTE JOURNEYS

Where the Baby Is Seasoned with Salt and Pepper

By TEMPLE MANNING

WHAT would you think if you were a Greek baby boy, born in one of the small villages or on a farm, and the first thing your daddy did to you was to sprinkle you with salt and pepper? You wouldn't like it, would you? And yet this is exactly what is done to the boy Mainote, perhaps with an idea of giving him a foretaste of the hard life of that rocky section.

When the baby is born with hair on his head, the priest—who is always present at such events in the homes of the faithful—cuts off a few hairs. He joins these hairs with the wax from an altar taper, then he throws them into the water in which the child is to be baptized. After the baby's baptism the priest puts an amulet around his neck to guard him throughout life, and the child may be said to be launched on his career.

No less odd are the customs in other sections of Greece. For instance, in

A Mainote Welcome.

Athens, no matter how rich the family may be—so long as they cling to the old customs—the first clothing the baby wears is made from an old shirt his father wore.

Interesting as are the baptismal customs of Greece—and beautifully symbolic as they are—they are somewhat like our own baptismal rites. But what is very different, is that from its baptism the baby has a name. Until his or her baptism the child has been called "Sideros." This means "iron," and the baby is so called because his parents hope that he or she will be as strong as iron.

From now on until he is 3 years old, the boy child—when not called by his own name—is referred to as "Baby." He must be 12 years old before he is called "Youth," and attain the age of 18 before any one thinks of speaking of him as "Young man." But the proudest moment of all comes with his 22d birthday. On that day he is first spoken of as "Full-grown man."

And the chances are he by now realizes why his father sprinkled him with salt and pepper the day he was born.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, SEPT. 22.

According to the science of astrology this should be a day of brilliant achievement and long-deferred accomplishment. There should be unusual speeding up of lagging affairs, with expansion and financial returns along all lines of endeavor. This splendid prospect should not be negatived by the tendency to impetuosity and fractiousness stimulated by an adverse position of the fiery Mars, inciting to quarrels and litigation. Domestic affairs are not so fortuitously aspected.

Those whose birthday it is are under excellent prospects for success and growth, with fulfilled ambitions and financial rewards, but they should keep good control over their speech and deportment, avoiding rashness, quarrels and litigation. A child born on this day will be active, aggressive, quick-tempered, fortunate in its undertakings, and will make rapid rise in life.

THE MERRY LITTLE MEADOW FOLKS.

My, what a flurry and scurry there was in the nest when the young grasshoppers hatched out!

They were such funny-looking little fellows that they all stared at each other and laughed merrily.

"So this is the world!" cried one.

"I want my mama!" cried another, and two great big tears rolled out of his eyes and tumbled in the grass.

"Pooh!" exclaimed the largest, who had been out just long enough to sprout his wings. For you must know that when a baby grasshopper first comes out of the egg, he looks just like his parents, except in place of wings he has tiny scales to take their place. "Who ever heard of a grasshopper knowing his mama? Folks being blessed with six legs never need a mama."

"But I do want my mama!" cried the tiny one.

No mama came in answer to his crying, so at last he hushed up and tried to be happy.

"Why, our mama would have a terrible time if she had to take care of us all," laughed the oldest grasshopper. "After she digs the little hole in the ground with her tiny sword and puts in her eggs, her duty toward us is finished. We have to do the rest."

"And is that what this sword I carry is for?" asked his younger sister. "To make holes in the ground for my eggs?"

"Certainly, stupid!" the big brother laughed. It was funny how little some folks did know, especially when they were young. But he laughed as he remembered how he felt the first morning he found himself out in the new world, and his chest swelled with pride.

"Yes, we all have six legs," he told his brothers and sisters. "We boys can sing and play the fiddle, while the girls carry the swords and lay the eggs."

"And does everything in the world have six legs?" asked one of the newcomers.

"Everything!" replied the oldest. He felt quite honored to think his brothers and sisters took his word for law.

But when the day came for the little grasshoppers to venture farther out into the meadow, they found out their brother didn't know nearly as much as he claimed he did. For the first to welcome them was old Mother Hoppy Toad and she only had four legs.

"Silly!" she laughed, when one of the grasshoppers asked her how she had come to lose her other two legs. "I never had more than four. You fellows have six and always will have six, unless something happens to you. But I'll bet you don't know why your hind legs are so long, do you?"

The little grasshoppers looked at their know-it-all brother, and shook their heads.

"So you can use those hind legs for jumping," laughed Mother Hoppy Toad. "Why, the farther you go into the world the less number of legs you'll find folks use. The man who mows the meadows has only two. And Willy Earth Worm has none at all."

The little grasshopper children shook their heads sadly, and thanking Mother Hoppy Toad, they hopped on over the meadows.

Every day they learned something new that made them happier than they were the day before. And when it came time for them to change their little suits, they knew everything a little grasshopper should know, and a happier little band could not be found in all the meadow.

His wife died three years ago last March, since which time he has made his home with his son, township trustee, H. C. Schaible, who with a daughter, Mrs. G. A. Hahn, of Oberlin, and four grand children, survive him. He was also a brother of John, Charles and Miss Sophia Schaible, of the Telegraph road, and of Mrs. Geo. Krriger, of Wooster.

A Surprise Tonight

If you will try this way to prettier teeth

This test will surprise and delight you. The results are so quick, so pleasing, so conspicuous.

Millions have already made it. The glistening teeth seen everywhere now show some benefits it brings.

Go get this free tube from the dealer named. Use it and watch the effects. It will open up to you and yours a new era in teeth cleaning.

Why prettier teeth?

This method brings whiter, prettier teeth because it fights the film. Your teeth are now covered with a viscous coat. Feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Old brushing methods do not remove it all. Enough remains to make the teeth both dingy and unsafe.

That is why teeth look cloudy. The film-coats absorb stains. Film also causes most tooth troubles. And, under old methods, all those troubles have been constantly increasing.

How film ruins teeth

Film dims the teeth's luster. It also forms the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Many other serious troubles, local and internal, are now traced to them.

Countless people find that teeth brushed daily still discolor and decay. The main reason lies in that film.

Now we daily fight it

Dental science, after long research, has found ways to fight that film. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

These methods are combined in a modern dentifrice called Pepsodent. Millions now employ it, largely by dental advice. The use is fast spreading the world over among those who know.

That is the tooth paste we ask you to try. Watch its effects on the film. See how your teeth improve. Then let your own good sense decide between old methods and the new.

Three other essentials

Modern science also requires three other effects from a tooth paste. The old methods did not bring them. Pepsodent brings them all.

This 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent. Present the coupon to the dealer named below.

Make this delightful test. Watch the quick effects—see the change in a week. Then you will realize what this new way means to you and yours.

Each use of Pepsodent multiplies the salivary flow. That is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer for the acids which cause decay.

Five important effects come from every application. And modern authorities deem all of them essential.

Not for women only

The most conspicuous effect is glistening teeth. Countless women employ it largely on that account. Few things add so much to beauty.

But men also want white teeth. Men who smoke find that teeth discolor quickly, due to stains in the film.

Pepsodent means more than this, however. It means cleaner, safer teeth. Children need it even more than others. Their teeth are easily attacked, and very few escape. Dentists advise that Pepsodent be used every day from the time the first tooth appears.

To all it means a new conception of clean, well-protected teeth.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects.

This test will prove a delightful revelation. To you and yours it may bring life-long benefits. Every day you wait may mean new damage. Cut out the coupon now. Present it this week.

OBERLIN

CAR BURGLARS ARRESTED BY OBERLIN MARSHAL

OBERLIN—Two strangers in Oberlin were arrested Monday night by Marshal Edmonds, and locked up on the charge of burglarizing a freight car on the New York Central. The two men in question were Ian McTabish and Joe Moran. The latter was also charged with carrying concealed weapons. They were brought before Police Justice, C. R. Summers Tuesday night, waived examination and were bound over to the grand jury under $500 bail each. Being unable to furnish bail, they are now confined in the county bastile.

WANT TOO MUCH MONEY FROM TAXES FOR YEAR

OBERLIN—The school board and village council have each made up their budget for the coming year and figured the tax assessment that would be required. The combined levy, however, exceeds the 10 mill limit allowed by law, and the two official bodies met together last evening in the town hall for the purpose of seeing which side should back up and, if so, how much. Neither side was able to figure how they could possibly shoulder the necessary reduction, and the meeting adojurned without a settlement of the question. There will be another meeting and it is hoped they can agree upon a compromise settlement of the question.

OBERLIN PERSONALS

OBERLIN— The registration figures show that 1260 students have signed up for places this fall in Oberlin college. About 15 per cent of those who signed up during the spring and summer do not come to claim their places. Allowing for this regular falling off in numbers, it is presumed that the final numbers will total nearly eleven hundred. This number is all that those in charge feel that the college can successfully accommodate and is the number wanted each year. There is no report at present to be given out of the exact numbers enrolled for each class.

The annual sophomore-freshman tie-up will take place on Dill field next Monday evening.

Prof. A. S. Root will give a series of eight lectures on library adminstration at the library school at Western Reserve during the year.

Miss Tyler, principal of the school is out on a year's leave of absence and Prof. Root fills this place.

Prof. Root taught during the summer school session at the university of Michigan. He has recently been elected president of the American Library association.

Rev. J. C. Andrus occupied his old pulpit at Penfield Congregational church last Sunday.

Wool Prices Low Despite Pooling

It is stated by a number of farmers that the price of wool has not improved as a result of pooling their fleeces. During the war period and for some time later, the price of wool continued to rise until the price was raised as high as 74c a pound.

Many farmers from this county sent their wool to Columbus under the pooling plan, and it was predicted that the price would keep on going up. But the reverse was the case. Wool growers of Australia New Zealand and other countries took their profit before the market hit the bottom.

According to County Agent Rogers, a large part of the wool sent to the Columbus ware houses under the pooling plan is unsold, and the wool market is in a chaotic condition. With no tariff barrier to head them off, foreign wool interests are said to have loaded up the American market with wool at low figures.

SNIPPY RED SQUIRREL AND CHATTY CHIPMUNK BECOME FRIENDS.

IT was sure to happen, just as sure as the morning follows the night, that every time Snippy Red Squirrel and his cousin, Chatty Chipmunk, met, they had a quarrel.

Sometimes Red Squirrel claimed the berry bushes where Chatty gathered his breakfast, sometimes they had an argument over the weather—always it was a fuss about something.

One morning they quarrelled because Snippy Red Squirrel claimed he had the prettier home, and, of course, Chatty Chipmunk felt quite sure his home was the most beautiful—and so it started.

"Why, my goodness, just think of the things you can see from my doorway!" exclaimed Snippy Red Squirrel. "Miles and miles of forests and hills! Why, I can spot the best nuts to be found without even so much as wasting time hunting for them. You wouldn't catch me building an underground home—I should say not! Me for my hole in a tree!"

"All right!" laughed Chatty Chipmunk. "If you prefer the tree-tops, well and good. Live in them. I find it more convenient to burrow under the ground. Fact is, I'd never be content living in one room. You see, I want several rooms, and I like halls, lots of them."

"Pooh! the more room you have, the more work you have!" cried Snippy Red Squirrel. "If the fact were known, there is another reason why you don't build your home in a beautiful tree. You can't climb like I can!"

"Maybe not," snapped Chatty Chipmunk. "But you can't dig like I can, so I guess that makes us even."

With a flip of his pretty tail, Chatty Chipmunk scampered back into his doorway to see if Mama Chipmunk and her babies needed anything.

Snippy Red Squirrel muttered something about "chipmunks being foolish creatures," and hurried off in search of food.

It was late in the afternoon when Snippy Red Squirrel returned, and he hurried up the side of the tree and through his tiny doorway just as a terrible storm broke over the meadows.

Mama Red Squirrel and her three babies were glad to see him, for the great tree soon began to shiver and shake in the terrible wind, and the lightning almost blinded them as it flashed across the fast darkening sky.

How it rumbled and roared and sputtered and crashed! Great trees were torn up by the roots and hurled to the ground, and among them was the very tree Red Squirrel and his family occupied.

None of the Squirrel family was hurt, but Chatty Chipmunk heard the crash, and hurried out to offer his help. The homeless cousins were taken in and fed by Mama and Chatty Chipmunk, but Snippy Red Squirrel was so stubborn he wouldn't agree to try Chatty Chipmunk's style of living. They almost came to words right then and there, but Mama Chipmunk quieted them in the gentle way she always had when folks around her were upset.

"Pooh! it would be a funny world if we all lived alike and each did the very same thing every day," she laughed. "I think, myself, it's a pretty good plan that some of us live in the tree-tops and some live underground. The ones on top can help the ones underground, and they in turn can do a kindness for the ones in the tree-tops. My mate is a splendid digger, and you, Snippy, are a splendid climber, so let's be happy and be the best little neighbors and cousins we can be."

Very much ashamed of themselves, Snippy Red Squirrel and Chatty Chipmunk shook hands. Then, the storm being over, they both went out in search of a proper place for Red Squirrel's new home, and from that day to this no one has ever heard them quarrelling.

CHIEF JUSTICE MARSHALL'S OPINION

Chief Justice Marshall, in today's dispatches, declares that the outrageous action of the four of the seven judges of the Supreme Court in declaring that an emergency existed in the Reorganization Bill, when it did not, as a matter of fact, exist, virtually amounts to a repeal of the constitution by the court rather than by the action of the people of the state, and says that the damage done is irreparable.

We appreciate keenly the spirit of our Chief Justice in his opinion of the high-handed action taken by a majority of the court in the political opinion which they rendered, but we believe that Mr. Marshall is mistaken and that he takes too gloomy a view when he says that the damage done is "irreparable."

The final power in the government of Ohio rests with the people of the state, and the damage done by that illogical and surprising decision can be remedied in several ways. The people by their vote can take from the position of power and authority in the Supreme Court the men who, by this action, denied to the people the very powers which the citizens reserved to themselves when they adopted the constitution. Then when they have selected men as interpreters of our constitution who are desirous of protecting the rights of the people and who are inclined, as most of the courts of the country are, to resolve the doubts in favor of the reserved rights, the decision on the emergency clause of the Reorganization Bill will be overruled in such an emphatic manner that courts in the future will know that the people mean what they say.

If this method is not adopted, the people still have the power to amend the constitution by the insertion of such clear and emphatic language in relation to the powers of the people, to the review of the acts of the legislature, that the judges upon the supreme bench, however they may be affected by personal or partisan consideration, will have in this particular matter but one road of travel.

WHAT PROHIBITION DOES?

We read the other day that "Because the United States prohibits the manufacture of alcohol, foreign countries are getting far ahead of this country in their experiments along the line of research and the possibility of finding a lower price of gasoline." There is only one difficulty with this statement. That difficulty is that it is not true that the United States prohibits the manufacture of alcohol. It simply prohibits it being manufactured and sold for beverage purposes.

But it may be that the idiot author of the above statement would contend that the man would have to be half filled with alcohol to find a substitute for gasoline. Or maybe the writer of the above was "loaded" himself and ran out of gasoline ten miles from a filling station or—but what's the use.

WHO VOTED

The so-called Good Roads Federation, which appears at times to be mainly interested in those selling material to the Highway Department, says that it has conducted a plebiscite of some kind to determine whether the people want the road building continued or whether they want to hold up for lower prices.

He says the unanimous sentiment is in favor of continuing the highway building, notwithstanding the prices of material. There are two strange things about this, one is that nobody heard about this plebiscite, or vote on the matter, that was being conducted on the material, as far as we are able to learn, until after they had found their verdict. Second, that the verdict was so contrary to the commonly expressed opinion. There are other collateral facts. One is that the announcement of the finding was made by the Governor's office, which has been trying to ignore the question of price pretty largely on road building.

Whatever may have been the facts in the case, good business would suggest the withholding of contracts until prices had come down to sanity. In fact, the mere agitation has reduced them to a certain degree, and the prices of cement has already dropped.

WE COULD TELL IT IF WE HEARD IT

We notice that one of the Cleveland papers is having an automobile contest, but of an unusual kind. They will print pictures of a portion of each machine and the participants are to tell what kind of a machine it is. In other words, they are to determine who can tell the greater number of machines by merely looking at them.

We are not very much on sight, but if we could only listen to the rattle we could tell some of them.
